

Featured in Law360: 2025's Defining AI Securities Litigation

January 26, 2026

Law360 recently published an article authored by Cooley securities litigation attorneys analyzing three defining cases from 2025 that will shape how courts assess artificial intelligence (AI)-related disclosures moving forward. As the article explains, the “stakes are rising,” given that “AI-related securities filings doubled from seven in 2023 to 15 in 2024, with another 14 through the first three quarters of 2025.” Read the article to learn more about how courts are applying securities law doctrines to this new technological context – and what to watch in 2026.

Contributors

William K. Pao

Bio

Jonathan Waxman

Bio

Julian Piroli

Bio

Ryan Ylitalo

Bio

---

This content is provided for general informational purposes only, and your access or use of the content does not create an attorney-client relationship between you or your organization and Cooley LLP, Cooley (UK) LLP, or any other affiliated practice or entity (collectively referred to as “Cooley”). By accessing this content, you agree that the information provided does not constitute legal or other professional advice. This content is not a substitute for obtaining legal advice from a qualified attorney licensed in your jurisdiction, and you should not act or refrain from acting based on this content. This content may be changed without notice. It is not guaranteed to be complete, correct or up to date, and it may not reflect the most current legal developments. Prior results do not guarantee a similar outcome. Do not send any confidential information to Cooley, as we do not have any duty to keep any information you provide to us confidential. This content may have been generated with the assistance of artificial intelligence (AI) in accordance with our AI Principles, may be considered Attorney Advertising and is subject to our legal notices. Copyright © 2026