Cooley

Featured in Law360: Key Tronic Case Shows SEC Isn’t Ignoring Controls Violations

May 15, 2026

Law360 recently published an article authored by Cooley attorneys Tejal Shah and Bingxin Wu analyzing a recent Securities and Exchange Commission (SEC) enforcement action against a public company for books and records and internal controls violations – the first nonfraud enforcement action brought against a public company during Chairman Paul Atkins' tenure. As the article explains, notwithstanding its shift in enforcement priorities, "the SEC remains willing, under certain circumstances, to bring enforcement actions that charge books and records and internal controls violations, even if it ultimately declines to pursue fraud charges." Read the article to learn more about the case and what it means for public companies navigating SEC investigations and settlement discussions.

Contributors

Tejal Shah
Bio

Bingxin Wu
Bio

This content is provided for general informational purposes only, and your access or use of the content does not create an attorney-client relationship between you or your organization and Cooley LLP, Cooley (UK) LLP, or any other affiliated practice or entity (collectively referred to as "Cooley"). By accessing this content, you agree that the information provided does not constitute legal or other professional advice. This content is not a substitute for obtaining legal advice from a qualified attorney licensed in your jurisdiction, and you should not act or refrain from acting based on this content. This content may be changed without notice. It is not guaranteed to be complete, correct or up to date, and it may not reflect the most current legal developments. Prior results do not guarantee a similar outcome. Do not send any confidential information to Cooley, as we do not have any duty to keep any information you provide to us confidential. This content may have been generated with the assistance of artificial intelligence (AI) in accordance with our AI Principles, may be considered Attorney Advertising and is subject to our legal notices. Copyright © 2026